Context and mission vision

This mission falls within the Migration and Diaspora program, which adopts an approach stressing regular migration and the engagement of the diaspora to promote the social and economic development of our partner countries.

Following the principles of the German government's migration policy, this program aims to :

- Take advantage of the potential offered by regular migration,
- Support partners in their effort to organize regular migration,
- Reduce the causes of exodus and irregular migration,
- Help migrant women and men return to their country and reintegrate into the labor market,
- Make the transaction costs generated by monetary transfers from migrants to their country of origin transparent..

Within this framework, the development of the mapping of CSOs in Tunisia falls, specifically,

MISSION OBJECTIVE

1 General Objective :

L'objectif de cette mission est de fournir au Projet migration et diaspora une meilleure visibilité sur les associations existantes en Tunisie.

2 Specific Objectives :

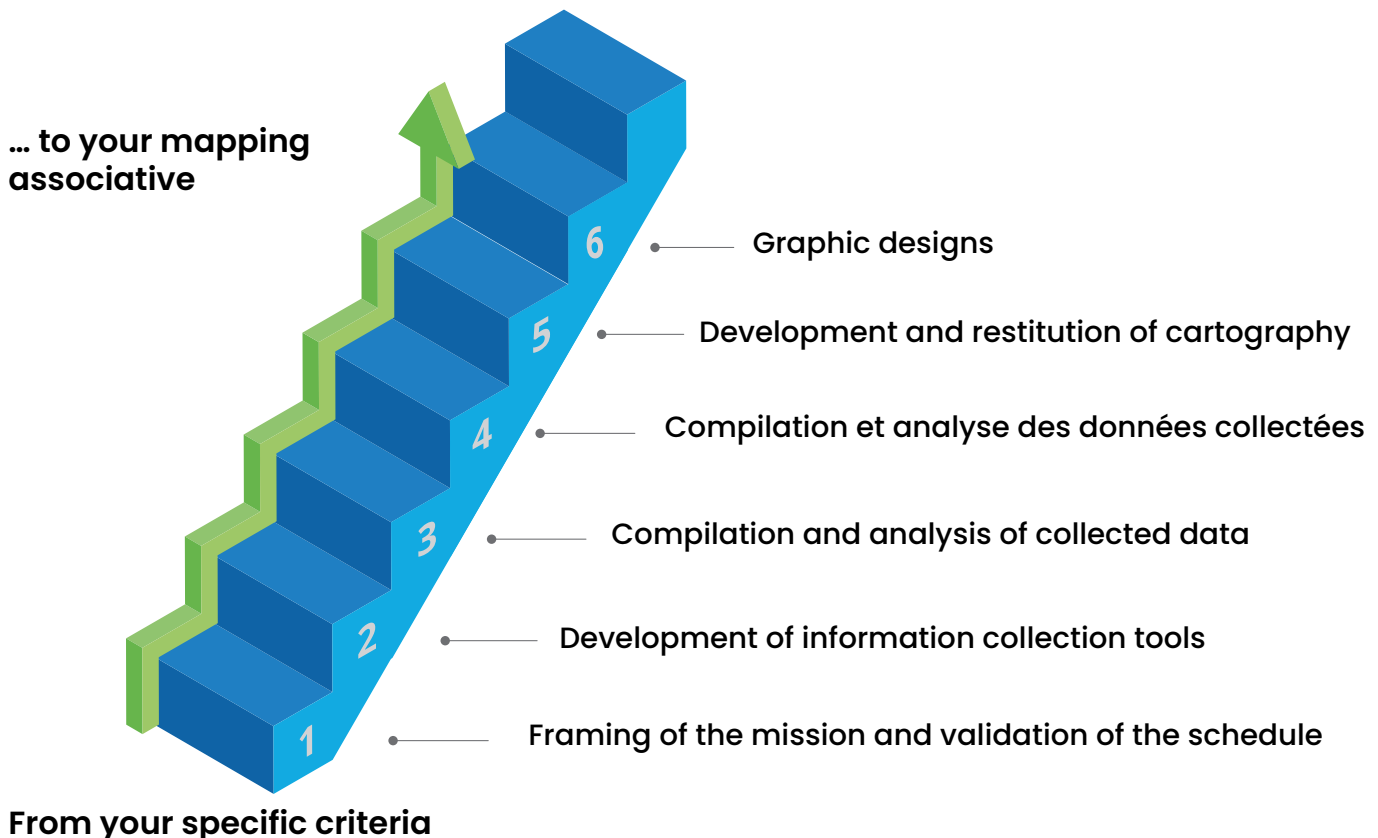

The development of a mapping of the Tunisian associations that are active in the themes below in order to :

- Have better visibility on associations that already have a partnership with Tunisian diaspora associations present in Germany.
- Have better visibility of associations supported by key donors in +Tunisia (Exp European Union, Swiss Cooperation, GIZ, etc.)
- Identification of potential collaboration avenues in order to refine the choice of future partnerships.

Work methodology and expected results

1 Mission steps

2 Framing, research and data collection

2.1 The scope of the mission

This work is carried out during meetings and discussions with the project managers based on their oral information and written documents. These exchange meetings made it possible to define the project team's expected collection and diagnostic work. This work was conducted in complete confidentiality and enhanced with the consultant's expertise responsible for the assignment

It is also a matter of defining, with the project managers, what exactly is meant by "mapping" the associations to be identified and refining the understanding of the three selection criteria (Gender, Foreign funding, and Diaspora)

2.2 Methods of research and collection of data on associations

- ▶ For the first phase of data collection, the documentary research and information collection were based on the websites ifeda.org and Jamaity.tn, which assemble the active associations in Tunisia and provide information and details on their activities. This phase made it possible to make an initial selection of initiatives and organizations that meet the identification criteria developed above.
- ▶ For the second collection phase, websites, and social media pages provided information on the target associations.
- ▶ For the third phase of collection, a questionnaire survey was put on "Google Forms", administered to associations in 2 languages (French and English) and shared with identified associations that meet the selection criteria.

2.3 • Diagnostic tools used with target associations

Semi-structured individual interviews : Individual interviews were carried out with the heads of associations identified by the project team to understand their needs and help GIZ better identify its choice of future partnerships.

- ▶ These interviews make it possible to gather as much information as possible on the various associations identified while adopting a flexible attitude towards the interlocutors, which allows a great openness to share their opinions. This type of interview is based on a questionnaire with a choice of predetermined questions. New questions may emerge during each discussion.

3 The selection criteria for associations :

Based on the orientations of the ToRs and the recommendations formulated by the project steering committee during the scoping phase, the associations to be taken into consideration are those whose objectives are :

- ▶ The creation of perspectives such as qualification measures,
- ▶ The introduction of new methods and techniques,
- ▶ Training and continuing education for multipliers,
- ▶ Awareness-raising measures,
- ▶ Align with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).
- ▶ Improving the living conditions of the local population
- ▶ The consideration of the gender approach in their activities

Other criteria noted below have been proposed in order to identify a "shortlist" to help project managers identify future partner associations :

- ▶ Having the ability to implement and manage a project (based on previous experiences)
- ▶ Having received financing support from a funder
- ▶ Active association, governed by Tunisian law and in a regular legal situation
- ▶ Who are interested in implementing activities with the diaspora
- ▶ Who are interested in the "Gender" theme
- ▶ Who is interested in the transfer of knowledge and know-how
- ▶ Having at least 3 years of experience
- ▶ Having at least 1 employee

4 The expected results

- ▶ Develop an overall mapping of associations having a partnership with the diaspora, particularly the German diaspora, mainly associations benefiting from an international fund and associations with a gender focus.
- ▶ Bring together the recommendations that will guide GIZ in its choice of future partnerships, accompanied by detailed profiling of associations with an analysis of their needs.

E Mission Deliverables

- ▶ Methodological note
- ▶ Data collection toolsTable de suivi des données
- ▶ Two Language Mapping Report
- ▶ Maps in the form of a poster.
- ▶ All deliverables must be issued digitally on USB keys

According to a study published in August 2021, the associative fabric in Tunisia brings together more than 24,000 associations registered on the platform of the "Ifeda" center. They are spread over the 24 governorates.

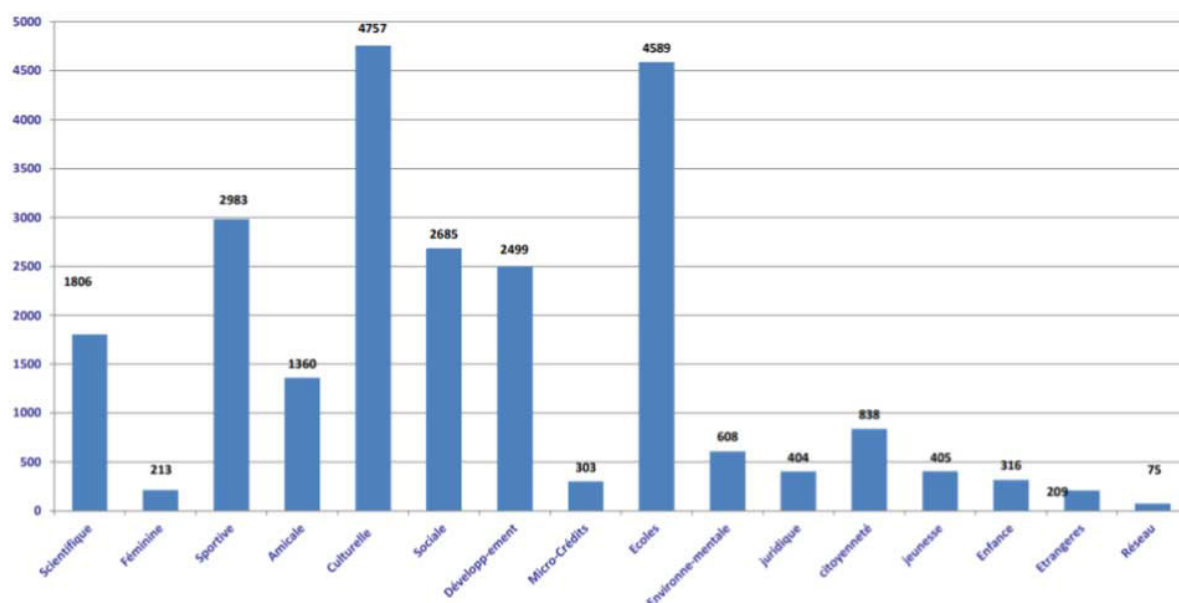

More than 30% of associations are legally created and registered in greater Tunis (Tunis, Ariana, Manouba and Ben Arous), the Zaghuan region has the lowest rate with 1.27%.

About 20% of associations are cultural and less than 1% are interested in the "female" gender

Répartition des Associations par secteur d'activité

Culture presents the main sector of activity of Tunisian associations.

2 Associations in partnership with associations of the Tunisian diaspora in Germany

The Tunisian diaspora brings together people of Tunisian origin living outside the country. It is the direct consequence of the high rate of emigration experienced by Tunisia since its independence in 1956.

The Tunisian associations concerned by this mission are those which have received in kind and/or material support from Tunisian associations based in Germany.

More than 40% of associations with foreign funding are interested in economic and social development in Tunisia.

In addition, 23% of associations receive funding from abroad for Projects on the theme of rights (men, women, gender, and children).

35% of active associations with foreign funding provide services for Tunisian women and youth, and only 5% are interested in meeting the specific needs of people with disabilities.

More than 75% of active associations with foreign funding operate at the national level, 10% at the national and international levels. Only 3% intervene on an international scale only.

e. Associations that take the gender approach into account in their activities:

The gender approach starts from the observation that inequalities between women and men are built by societies.

The Final Objective is to promote equal rights between the two sexes and equitable resources and responsibilities.

Unlike biological sex, gender refers to the roles, relationships, representations, and expectations assigned to the sexes based on a social construct and which vary according to the context, evolve dynamically, and are reflected in norms: societal laws, traditions, religions, etc. The associations concerned are Tunisian women's associations and/or are interested in equal rights for men and women.

Finalized project / ongoing	❖ Project 1 : FAIRE (EU funding): Support female agricultural workers in recognizing and claiming their economic and social rights and in dealing with the violence they suffer.

f. Graphic description of the gender-sensitive associations in their activities:

More than 80% of associations active on gender are interested in gender law, 8% are interested in Health, and only 1% are interested in Agriculture and Development. About 60% of associations active on gender intervene at the national level, 23% at the regional level. Only 3% intervene at a local level.

More than 50% of associations active on gender provide services for Tunisian women, around 30% between youth and children, and only 1% are interested in meeting the specific needs of LGBTQI + groups.

Limitations of the mapping work

This mission of developing a mapping of associations in Tunisia experienced certain limitations as follows:

- ▶ The availability of resources and contacts;
- ▶ The reachability of associations by phone and e-mail;
- ▶ The sources of information are not up-to-date and unreliable;
- ▶ The number of documents and information provided during data collection.
- ▶ Difficulties when resorting to Tunisian diaspora associations in Germany (no answers on the questionnaire)

Conclusion

Maghreb Governance has promoted participatory processes in all its interventions and is always attentive to the needs of the Projects' managers and the associations consulted.

Several sources and methods were used during this mission to collect and verify data (by comparing the data collected from different sources).

The collection focused on three business areas and various predefined criteria on the TOR or mission follow-up meetings.

Appendices

Survey for associations

This survey was developed within the framework of the Migration and Diaspora programme and aims to better understand associations and structures in order to carry out a diagnosis and develop a mapping of CSOs in Tunisia, more specifically those related to the diaspora and those with a focus on gender.

The information collected through the survey is recorded in a computerized file by an expert appointed by GIZ. The collection will be limited to adequate, relevant and strictly necessary data for the purpose of the processing.
